Managed Services for Network Security

Network security has turned into an arms race. Businesses are flocking to the latest and greatest technologies in order to keep their data safe and would-be intruders out. However, security tools are only part of the equation. The rest is on IT itself. Supporting and managing best-of-breed security solutions requires tremendous specialized knowledge, first-hand experience and time. If existing IT teams can't meet every one of those requirements, the door remains open for cybercriminals.

Hiring dedicated personnel to address those shortcomings is one option, but doing so also takes time and resources that companies may not have. Another option? Arraya's Managed Services for Network Security.

Hands-Off Enterprise Security

Arraya's Managed Services for Network Security gives customers direct access to our security experts. Our team supplements and expands upon the skills of the personnel already on staff. It stands ready to shoulder the workload associated with supporting an organization's security effort. Whether a task is outside of the expertise of on-site IT or merely consuming too much of its time, our team can handle it.

Our Managed Services for Network Security service covers:

- Managing (security) zones, networks and locations
- Inspecting, blocking and altering malicious traffic (using intrusion detection policies)
- Handling early detection, reputation-based blacklisting
- Adding or editing access control policies and rules
- Providing 24×7 monitoring and alert response
- Detecting, analyzing and tracking files (and protecting against malware)
- Generating reports for hosts, users, attacks, malware threats and overall network status
